From Emmanuel's Desk

So far, but so close.....

We live in a world of duality; hot and cold, positive and negative, you cannot have the left side without the right, and so on. The end of a phase is the beginning of another. GCSE and A-level exams are gradually drawing to a close indicating that the beginning of another phase is imminent; what seemed far away this time last year, is now almost over.

The same can be said of any task, test, project, goal, academic or otherwise. Do not fall for the lure of procrastination under the pretence of 'there is still time':

this is not so. Hello year 10 and year 12 students – listen up! Pre-Uni students this applies to you too! This is the right time to start your preparation for the next summer exam, phase or task.

For everyone, this is the time to start preparing for your next level. Define your goals, lay out your plans and start at once. Do not be deceived by the illusion of 'it's still far away', time goes quickly, and it waits for no one. Be wise!

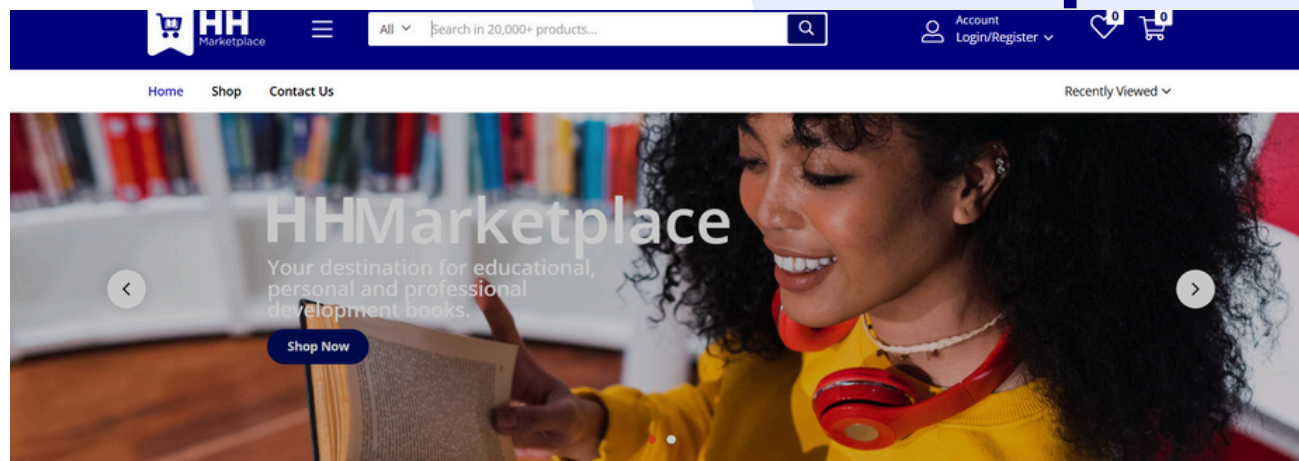

Remember the proverb, a stitch in time saves nine!

Motivational Moments

"Discipline is the bridge between goals and accomplishment."

Jim Rohn

WHAT AM I?

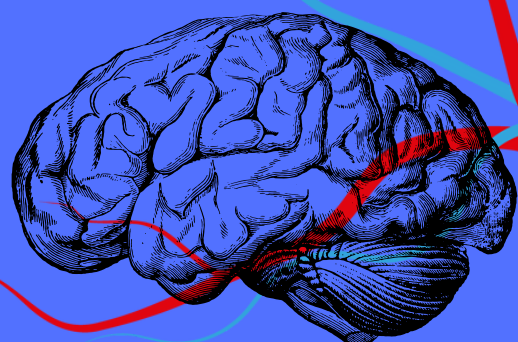

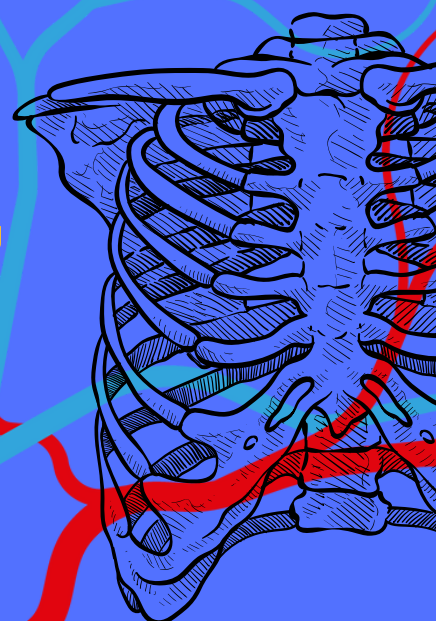

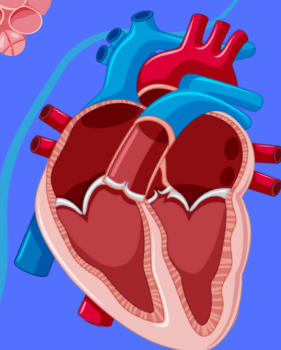

Q: "When atoms lose their outer might,
I shine with charge that's full and bright.
In salty seas of molten flow,
To cathodes fast, I'm first to go.
I'm not an anion—think again!
In reactivity, I lead the men."

A: CATION
